

CHITECH FUTURES

WHAT IT IS

ChiTech Futures is the culmination of an amazing year of learning—an exhibition of our students' innovative project-based work. It's more than just a showcase though, Futures offers volunteers the opportunity to enhance the development students realize at ChiTech by engaging directly with their work to provide mentorship and feedback.

YOU are the most important part of futures—alongside Chicago professionals and business leaders, YOU will help our students grow their skills and take their learning to the next level.

HOW TO BE INVOLVED

- 1 MOCK INTERVIEWING: You can be a mock interviewer for our Freshmen professional development plans. You and/or your organization will reserve a table where students will come to present their resume, cover letter, career plan, and college major while you engage them with questions and feedback, and score their overall presentation using a provided rubric.
- 2 BUSINESS PLAN JUDGE: You can be a judge for our ChiTech Launch Sophomore Business Plan Competition. In a convention-style format, you'll be able to move among the presentations of ChiTech's entrepreneurship club Sophomores where they will pitch their company, outlining their innovative product designs, financial plans, and business strategies while you ask questions, provide insights, and score their project.
- 3 INNOVATOR MENTOR: Our ChiTech Launch and Game Design Juniors will be presenting their advanced projects and need professional mentor input from you. Their products represent almost two years of development, and small-group sessions with industry volunteers will allow them to utilize your skills and experience to move from concept to execution.
